

The Kyron Horman
Foundation

Safety Tips

For Children

There are some times when kids are abducted. This means that they are taken against their will. Abduction involves people doing bad things to you or asking you to do things to them that make you feel uncomfortable.

Here's the hard part: kidnappers don't always look or act differently and may even offer to be your friend. Just remember that they could harm you. The good news is that most kids or young adults who are abducted are returned home safely. Remember that child abduction is very rare. However, it is important to use your good sense in all situations.

Inside are 7 rules that you can use to help protect yourself from these kinds of situations.

The Kyron Horman
Foundation

Contributing Resources

This information is taken directly from the FBI's interactive kids' web site and put into a format that can be distributed at events.

<http://www.fbi.gov/fun-games/kids/kids-safety>

All written information contained within this brochure is exclusively owned by the FBI.

Photos used in this brochure have been supplied by:

ABC News web site:

<http://abcnews.go.com/WhatWouldYouDo/lost-child/story?id=4709538>

Parentella:

<http://blog.parentella.com/2011/stranger-awareness-and-safety/>

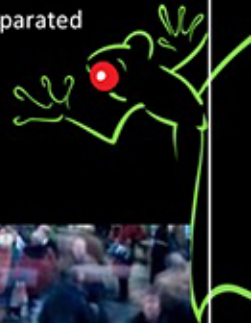

The Kyron Horman
Foundation

Safety Tips

For Children

Have you ever found yourself separated from your mom or dad?

It's scary, isn't it?

Then you know how your parents feel when they can't find you! You might not think that it's a big deal to wander off while you're in the store with your mom or dad, but think how scared they will be when they can't find you. Most of the time, you wander back and everything is okay.